A RAILROAD'S AID

In the Construction of Roads Along Its Line.

County Judge Rochester Wants the "Good Roads" Train.

County Judge Rochester, always awake to the best interests of the county, has been interesting himself in the "good roads" train to be run by the L. C. railroad from New Orleans to Chicago. With the hope of getting this train to come to this county, he last week addressed the following letter to an official of the road:

MARION, Ky., March 23, 1901.
Mr. J. T. Harahan, V. P., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir: From newspaper accounts I see the Illinois Central plans to run a "Good Roads" train from New Orleans to Chicago, stopping at various county seats along the line to give practical illustrations of modern railroad building.

I doubt if there is a county on the line where improved roads will be of more benefit to the Illinois Central than in this, Crittenden county. Large quantities of flour and other minerals are hauled from two to twelve miles to Marion for shipment from various parts of the county, but for the five winter months, on account of the bad condition of the roads, this business is almost suspended. I think an examination of the reports from your office at this place will verify these statements and show that these mineral shipments pay your road handsomely.

As county judge I would like to co-operate with you in this work, and lend all reasonable assistance, and urge that the train stop at Marion. Will you please refer this to the proper authorities, with instructions to inform me as to the conditions to be complied with by county officials and business men along the line, and the probabilities of getting the train to stop here and give an exhibition of road making.

Awaiting a prompt response, I am, respectfully,

J. G. Rochester,
Judge Crittenden County.

It has been demonstrated that no other method of arousing interest in good roads is so effective as the building of short model roads. The farmers and others interested not only have an object lesson in the completed road, but they are taught the most approved system of road construction. The National Good Roads Association has completed arrangements with the Illinois Central Railroad Company for running a "good roads train" between Chicago and New Orleans, for the purpose of constructing model roads, as object lessons at convenient commercial centers in the several states traversed. The Office of Public Road Inquiries under the Secretary of Agriculture, is co-operating with the association by furnishing engineers and road experts to instruct the farmers, road officials, and people of the states in the most improved methods of road construction. The great manufacturers of road machinery are contributing machinery and competent men to operate the same, to show the necessity and economy of utilizing road machinery in constructing earth, gravel and macadam roads.

This is a novel project and the first attempt of any great railroad system to spend time and money in assisting and stimulating communities to improve the common roads. The officials of railroad companies occupy the same position as managers of enterprises or corporate interests, for they must give an account of all expenses and results to the stockholders and share in proportion the general prosperity and improvement. There should be a comity of interest existing among all agricultural, mining, manufacturing and transportation pursuits. The Illinois Central railway passes through the great agricultural, commercial and mining states of the Mississippi Valley. These states, owing to the great rainfall and the rich alluvial soil, have to contend with almost impassable mud roads nearly five months of the year. Frequent mud blockades occur, paralyzing transportation and commerce.

This train will leave Chicago this month or next and the work of road building will commence at or near New Orleans, then working Northward as the weather will permit. It will have a Pullman with commissary to accommodate two engineers, and roads experts, a representative of the National Good Roads Association, press representatives, six competent men for operating machinery, and laborers. At each place selected to build a piece of sample road the officials, commercial organizations and farmers will be expected to furnish all necessary material, additional help, teams, etc. Special attention will be given to the construction of the best earth roads, giving instructions in proper grading, surfacing and drainage, as many of the Southern states are without stone or gravel available for road purposes. Conventions will be held and organizations perfected to stimulate and advance this movement in the several States.

It is to be hoped that Judge Rochester's efforts will meet with the hearty approval of the people of this county, and that our farmers, business men, and miners will join in an effort to convince the road officials that this county is a splendid field for an exhibition of the great work the road has undertaken. With vast quantities of the material necessary in building roads diffused over every section of the county, with good interest already aroused in the matter of good roads, and with the rapidly developing mineral interests referred to in Judge Rochester's letter, this, it seems, is one of the points along the line where the very best results would spring almost immediately from a visit of the already famous train.

Of Interest to Sunday Schools.

The state, county and district officers of the Kentucky Sunday School Association, hold a conference at Marion April 17, 18, 19. The object is to promote the Sunday school interests of the State.

The State Association is interdenominational in character, being an organization of the denominations, by the denominations, for the denominations. Its plan of work is to organize every county in the State by calling the Sunday school workers together in convention annually, and by the election of a president, a secretary, and an executive committee, who look after the Sunday school interests of the county, under the direction of the State Executive Committee, and the General Secretary. The magisterial districts are organized in the same way. This meeting at Marion is a meeting of these officers for the purpose of improvement in their work.

It is not confined, however, to these officers. All persons interested in Sunday school work are invited, and especially pastors and superintendents. The two evening sessions and the afternoon of the last day are devoted exclusively to the work of the individual Sunday school.

This meeting is not in lieu of the Annual State Convention. It meets at Danville, August 20, 21, and 22.

Any one who contemplates going to Marion should send his name at once to Rev. James F. Price, Marion, and entertainment will be provided. This is an important meeting and some of the best speakers of the State will appear on the platform.

SALEM INTERESTED.

A Railroad Proposition Has the Right of Way in Discussion.

Saturday the Salem Commercial Club sent out through the mail five hundred postal cards bearing this important news and call:

"There will be important R. R. meeting at Salem next Wednesday March 27th. You are earnestly requested to attend. If you will give this matter your immediate attention Salem will have a R. R. in the year 1901. Come and help the project along."

SALEM COM. CLUB.

According to trustworthy information the PRESS has gathered from the commercial club, as well as the general talk of the community, a number of Cleveland, Ohio, capitalists who are interested in the mining industries of Crittenden and Livingston counties, have made a proposition to the people of Salem, to construct a railroad from the I. C. at Mexico station to Salem and on to Carrsville, provided they are given the right of way and a subscription of $25,000. The promoters of the enterprise propose to use the $2500 in making the preliminary survey, but will execute bond for its return to the donors, if the road is not built. This very liberal offer has naturally aroused great interest in Salem and along the proposed route, and the meeting last night was called for the purpose of raising the subscription and organizing for the purpose of securing the right of way. We go to press too early to report the result of the meeting, but it may be safely stated that the money will be forthcoming, and the other requirements complied with. The people of Salem are enthusiastic over the outlook and will leave no stone unturned to secure the road. If the projectors do not want to build the road, they will have to give Salem a much harder nut to crack than they have placed under the trip-hammer of enterprise.

Candidates for Legislature Speak

Monday afternoon Messrs. John W. Skelton, P. C. Stephens, A. J. Bennett and J. A. Graves, four of the six candidates for the Democratic nomination for Representatives, addressed a good sized crowd in the court house. Mr. Skelton had announced that he would speak and invited the other candidates to participate. The speeches were forceful, of a friendly nature and each gentleman clearly defined his position, on all questions and asked for the support of the people.

Large Congregations.

Mrs. Woosley, the lady evangelist, arrived in the city Saturday and is now conducting the revival services at the Cumberland Presbyterian church. Large congregations gather at every service. Mrs. Woosley is an able expounder. Much interest is being manifested and there has been several conversions. The services will continue through the week.

Stole a March.

Tuesday evening, March 19th at 7 o'clock, Mr. Clarence Crittenden and Miss Cora Gardner, of the Shady Grove neighborhood, were quietly married by Rev. Conway at this place. Miss Gardner with a friend came to town shopping, stopping over with friends for the night. Mr. Crittenden appeared in town as if by accident, remaining over for the night. The parties returned the next day as they came. So sly were they about the affair that it was several days before their friends suspected the truth.

HORSES AND MULES WANTED

100 mules from 3 to 7 years old, 15 to 16 hands high, in good flesh for which I will pay the highest market price. Also will buy fat horses. Will be at Pierce's livery stable, Marion, Friday and Saturday, March 29 and 30.

W. Wheeler.

Tuesday Mr. John T. Foley found a note belonging to Mr. F. M. Clement for $135.00 and he promptly turned it over to the proper parties and was rewarded.

PRIMARY ELECTION.

Is the Plan the Crittenden County Democratic Committee Prefers.

Pursuant to the call of Chairman Maxwell, the Democratic county committee held a meeting in Marion Monday for the purpose of determining some plan of making a nominee for the Legislature. The matter was fully and freely discussed, and the committee instructed Mr. Maxwell, in his conference with the chairman of the Livingston county committee, to vote for a primary election to be held on the first or second Saturday in May.

All of the candidates were present, and while some of them expressed a preference for a delegate precinct convention, all acquiesced in the action of the committee.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Ira Guess Fined $100 for Cutting in Sudden Heat.

MILES OF ROSES.

Brilliant Flower Parade to be One of the Big Features During the Memphis Reunion.

Magnificent Street Pageants and Stupendous Fire Work Spectacles on the River. How the Problem of Entertaining 100,000 Visitors is Being Carried On.

Memphis, Tenn., March 24.—Now that the Finance Committee has practically completed its task of securing the necessary funds with which to promote the Confederate Reunion to be held in Memphis next May, the entertainment, amusement, decoration and illumination and parade committees are determined to do their part in making the gathering of the veterans the most successful ever held in the South, and for that matter in the whole United States. With plenty of money at their disposal, everything will be gotten up on a grand scale, and already the preparations show that the whole affair will be a solid week of rare exciting pleasure and bewildering magnificence.

A careful and conservative estimate has been made which promises that the Bluff City will be visited by 100,000 visitors during the week of the reunion, and for all those of this immense gathering there will not be an idle moment provided for in the way of entertainment and amusement. Prominent among the greater spectacles will be the largest and most beautiful flower parade ever held in this country, and a realistic naval battle on the river, which will be illuminated with all the grand color scenery of war and the spectacular paraphernalia of striking realism.

The Memphis Architectural Club is taking a commendable pride in planning for the decorations of the city, and novel and beautiful features will be seen by the visitors along the streets and at every turn. The colonnade scheme for street decoration is being particularly considered. This novelty was what made the Dewey reception in New York and the Queen's Jubilee in London such a success. One can scarcely imagine a more striking or beautiful display than to gaze down a long thoroughfare, lined on either side by lofty white columns, reflecting the sunlight, surmounted by mazes of colored electric lights and joined with long festoons of national emblems and soaring bunting. This is but one feature of decoration at present being planned for.

Already State brigades are making ready to march on Memphis in May. Old veterans are polishing up old buckles and buttons, and gray heads are beginning to nod at each other from a distance. All of Western Kentucky is now organized into a brigade, with Col. H. S. Hale as colonel commanding, and will arrive on a special train. Letters from Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, Georgia, from all over the country, south of Mason and Dixon's line—are pouring in, telling of different brigades, regiments, companies and detachments that are looking forward to the reunion, and which are coming in full force.

The cost of coming to the reunion has now been placed at the very lowest minimum. In addition to the 1 cent a mile rate, the Southeastern Passenger Association has granted a liberal concession by extending the final limit of tickets to June 3, upon payment of a 50-cent deposit with the local joint railroad agent. This rate and extension privilege includes practically all of the roads in the South over which it will be necessary for reunion visitors to ride.

The Grand Flower Parade.

Miles of roses, miles of magnolias, miles of every flower growing in the South. This is what one of the chief features, the gorgeous street flower parade, will be, and which will transcend all like efforts ever given in the South. There will be traps, drags, landaus, stanhopps, phaetons, surreys, buggies, automobiles, runabouts, tea carts, tally-hos, floats, dog and pony and goat carts or wagons, and every conceivable vehicle that runs on wheels in the immense procession, and each and every one of them will be decorated, entwined, smothered with flowers, natural and imitation. The flower parade held in Memphis during the Dewey reception last May was a success, for it was as beautiful and attractive as eye could wish to see. But this year it will pale into insignificance, for the parade committee is determined to make the reunion spectacle simply perfect, and of much huger dimensions than the affair a year ago. Letters have been received from parties in Helena and Pine Bluff, from far away Florida, distant points in Georgia and Texas, notifying the parade committee that they are making preparations to take part in the parade, and asking after details. A brief description of the parade which took place last year will serve to give an idea of what may be expected when the mammoth procession is arranged and completed for the reunion.

When Admiral Dewey signified his consent to visit Memphis last May a floral parade suggested itself to the arrangements committee as being in every way most fitting to show to the Admiral the appreciation for him of the Southern people. The work was taken up with enthusiasm by the ladies of Memphis, and in the process of completion developed into one of the most beautiful entertainments which had up to that time been offered to the people of the Middle South. The parade was billed to start at 3 in the afternoon of May 8, but already as early as 2 o'clock gaily bedecked vehicles were driving past a given point in order to be photographed prior to the parade proper.

At 2:30 the school children of the city gathered at the place of meeting, all of them carrying flags and sweet-smelling bouquets of cut flowers. As they stood in picturesque confusion, attired in smart suits and white and cream-colored dresses, they presented a sight of careless and youthful beauty, which in itself was a picture rare to behold. One by one, in twos and in groups, the carriages rolled into place with wheels, horses and occupants fairly buried in gardens of extravagant color. As far as the eye could see was a living, moving mass of bloom poetical in the extreme.

When the parade finally turned into the principal thoroughfare, a cry of admiration arose from the crowds that packed the street for over half a mile.

Scattered through the line of carriages were tally-hos filled to the brim with pretty girls and beautiful women attired in eye-compelling costumes, every one of them a living embodiment of a new spring. Tiny tots with golden curls perched high above on the top seats waving nosegays at the spectators, or sat in cunning little dog and pony carts like diminutive fairy princesses going to some wedding with a mysterious mouse prince or mountain dwarf king. Following a richly decorated equipage of fashion would come a primitive ox cart, tastefully arrayed in simple flowers, and drawn by patient oxen who looked at the cheering crowds with kindly, inquiring eyes. Novelties like these served only to enhance the panorama by their contrasts. It was like a picture of a scene from the Battle of the Roses merging into a glimpse of a John Alden and Priscilla journeying through a primeval forest.

Such was the Flower Parade of a year ago. The one next May will be greater, more elaborate, more beautiful, in every way infinitely more interesting and magnificent. There will be prizes given to the most beautiful and most unique vehicles, and these prizes will be fittingly expensive and valuable, besides being lasting souvenirs of the occasion.

As a companion piece to this feature of the Reunion the Naval Battle or Fire Works Display on the river will be correspondingly elaborate. Later, this feature will be gone into at length, and as far as possible a description will be given, together with incidents in the war of 1861-65, which it will recall or suggest to the thousands of veterans who will witness the spectacle.

Activity of the Different Committees. With the probability of having to entertain 100,000 or more strangers and providing for the accommodations of thousands of veterans confronting them, the various committees are warming up to their work actively, with the result that everything is in splendid running order. The State headquarters will be erected on the bluff overlooking the river, and work on the building has already been commenced. A careful canvass of the entire city has been twice conducted, for the purpose of ascertaining just who can and will throw open their doors for the veterans, and for how many each householder can make room. One thousand cots with bedding and service have been offered to the committee at a very low price, and the committee department will be thirty times as large as the headquarters. An order has been given to a prominent badge firm to print 30,000 reunion badges. A special badge will be printed for President McKinley, and will be sent to the Chief Executive during the reunion. Railroad and hotel officials have been consulted, and, in general, all the chairmen, as well as the individual members of the committee, are busily engaged in working in a united successful endeavor to draw the business ends of the reunion, with all their multitudinous details, to a head.

What Prehistoric Man Ate.

Our modern microscope has been looking back some 5,000 years and examining the food of our savage ancestors when they were a little above the beasts whose bones we find mixed with theirs.

Charters White, of the Royal Odontological Society of Great Britain, has recently placed under his microscope teeth taken from human skulls dating back to the stone age, and carefully examined the tartar on them, after it had been dissolved in a weak acid, hoping to find traces of the food that they had masticated.

He was entirely successful, and found corn husk particles, hairs from the outside of husks, spiral vessels from vegetables, particles of starch, point of a fish tooth, oval cells from fruits, barbelets of down, portions of wool and pieces of quartz and flint.

Mars Has No Air or Water.

Not only are there no water on Mars, but there is no air, or very little. Spectroscopic observations at the Lick Observatory, far more complete and thoroughgoing than those made at other stations, writes Prof. Edward S. Holden in McClure's Magazine, lead to the conclusion that the atmosphere on Mars is certainly less in amount than that surrounding the summit on the highest Himalayan peaks. It is by no means certain that what air there is of the right kind for human beings to breathe. All telescopic observation leads to the conclusion that there are no clouds on Mars. If there were air and water clouds would certainly form. The sky of Mars is absolutely sunny. It is safe to say that, speaking generally, Mars is a planet without water, without air in any marked quantity and totally unfit for the abode of human beings.

Salt Lake Needs Water.

Utah proposes to avert pending calamity to her agricultural section by supplying the Great Salt Lake basin with needed water. Irrigation has cut off the supply and the lake itself is in imminent danger of drying up. The usual supply of water is being withheld, and evaporation is rapidly lowering the level of the lake. Centuries ago the shores of the great inland salt sea were high on the mountains, where the line of the ancient brook is visible today, and the lake, which has sunk to its present dimensions, promises to disappear far more rapidly than in the ages past.

Nervous Prostration.

A Noted Boston Woman Describes its Symptoms and Terrors.—Two Severe Cases Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

ADELE WILLIAMSON.

"I am so nervous! no one ever suffered as I do! There isn't a well inch in my body. I honestly believe my lungs are diseased, my chest pains me so, but I have no cough. I am so weak at my stomach, and have indigestion terribly, and palpitation of the heart; am losing flesh; and this headache and backache nearly kills me, and yesterday I had hysterics."

"There is a weight in the lower part of my bowels, bearing down all the time, with pains in my groins and thighs—I can't sleep, walk, or sit, and blue—oh goodness! I am simply the most miserable of women."

This is a most vivid description of a woman suffering with nervous prostration, caused by inflammation or some other diseased condition of the womb.

No woman should allow herself to reach such a perfection of misery when there is no need of it. Read about Miss Williamson's case and how she was cured.

Two Bad Cases of Nervous Prostration Cured.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I was suffering such tortures from nervous prostration that life was a burden. I could not sleep at all, and was too weak to walk across the floor. My heart was affected so that often I could not lie down at all without almost suffocating. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it worked like magic. I feel that your medicine has been of inestimable benefit to me."

MISS ADELE WILLIAMSON,

196 N. Boulevard, Atlanta, Ga.

"I had nervous prostration terribly, caused by female weakness. I suffered everything; was unable to eat, sleep, or work. After a while I was induced to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I really began to improve on taking the first bottle. I continued to take the medicine, and am now better in every way, and feel like a different person. I am simply a well woman."

THE STORM KING'S WORK.

Wind and Rain Create Havoc at Birmingham, Alabama, and Neighboring Towns.

TWENTY FIVE DEATHS ARE REPORTED.

Sunday and Sunday Night's snow storm in Colorado and Wyoming seriously disarranged railroad traffic, which is gradually getting untangled.

Birmingham, Ala., March 25.—A tornado which swept over Jones valley, in which Birmingham is located, between 9 and 10 a. m., resulted in immense damage to property and considerable loss of life. The number of dead is not yet definitely known, but up to noon it was estimated at 25, of these at least seven being killed at Irondale, about 15 from the city of Birmingham, and the others in suburban towns.

The Known Dead.

Among the known dead are the following:
Dr. G. C. Chapman, prominent physician, of this city; killed by falling debris in Mentor's store on South Twentieth street.
Mrs. Robert J. Lowe, wife of the chairman of State the democratic committee, and her infant son; killed at their residence on South Highlands.
J. Alexander, merchant; killed in his store at Avenue J and Twenty-fourth street.
W. P. Dickinson, bookkeeper; killed in Monitor's store.
Three-year-old daughter of R. B. Hudson, merchant.
Lizzie Glenn, negro.
Carrie Henry, negro.
Lizzie Goodlee, negro.
Carrie Hudson, negro.
Maggie Blevins, negro.
J. Myro, negro.
Fannie Steadman, negro cook for R. B. Hudson.

Fatally Injured.

Among the fatally injured are:
Mrs. R. H. Thomas and Mrs. W. H. Thomas, wife and mother of a prominent real estate dealer.

The storm did its worst damage in the neighborhood of Avenues I and J, from Tenth to Thirteenth streets, wrecking scores of buildings and creating terrible havoc. The entire fire and police departments turned out to render aid and are still engaged in taking the dead and injured from the debris and sending them to the undertaking shops and hospitals.

At Pratt City many buildings were destroyed and a number of people were more or less injured.
Brighton and North Birmingham were more or less damaged. The extent of damage at Irondale is not yet known, but it is stated that seven people were killed.

ANOTHER POINT HEARD FROM.

Lynville, Ga., Struck and Several Miles of Track Destroyed.

Chattanooga, Tenn., March 25.—The hurricane which swept Alabama is said to have struck the Chattanooga, Rome & Southern railway near Lynville, Ga., a small station south of Rome, and destroyed several miles of tracks. Neither that line nor the Southern railway has been able to get any information as to their trains, all wires being down. The Southern officials say that all wires on the Alabama Great Southern division are down.

THE WESTERN STORM.

Sunday's Snow Storm Seriously Disarranged Railroad Traffic.

Denver, Col., March 25.—The storm which raged in Colorado and Wyoming, Sunday and Sunday night, has passed away, and under the bright sunshine the snow is fast disappearing. The weather has not been cold, and it is not believed that range stock has suffered much.

Railroad traffic is still very much delayed, all trains from the east being reported from six to eight hours late. Trains from the west are also off time. The Chicago Commercial club, which was scheduled to arrive here at six o'clock Monday night, will not reach the city until Tuesday morning, having been delayed several hours by the burning of a bridge on the Rio Grande Western, near Deseret, Utah. It is reported that two cars of oranges ran into the burning bridge and were destroyed, but that no one was hurt. Particulars have not been received at the railroad offices here.

THE SNOWBOUND TRAINS.

The Storm Has Abated and the Trains are Digging Out.

Omaha, Neb., March 25.—The Union Pacific officials report that the four passenger trains that were snow-bound most of the day Sunday and Sunday night in the vicinity of Ogallala, Neb., have been relieved and are making headway in both directions. Several snow plows cleared the tracks between North Platte and Julesburg. The storm has abated, and danger of further blockade is believed to be past. President Burt and party, whose car was attached to one of the east-bound trains which was stuck in the drift, left Cheyenne after midnight. The storm is apparently at Ogallala, and temperatures have risen and there will not suffer. The off in a northwesterly direction. Trains are still stalled at Platte. Union Pacific people say that this is by far the heaviest snow of the season.

The Elkhorn is working to get its tracks open. The passenger train which left Omaha Sunday afternoon is still at Long Pine. The train leaving Deadwood Monday morning is expected to get through without hindrance.

The Burlington line to Billings will soon be open, and trains running as usual.

The Rock Island train from Denver, to avoid snow banks, has gone east via part of the Kansas City line of the Union Pacific and St. Joseph. A train has been made up at Fairbury to come via Omaha and run on to Chicago.

A Kansas Blizzard.

Kansas City, Mo., March 25.—A special to the Star from Hoxie, Kas., says:
Since Saturday night the worst blizzard since 1892 has been raging in this portion of Kansas. Snow has drifted badly in every direction. The Lincoln branch train is snowed in one mile east of Hoxie. The loss to live stock will likely be very heavy.

INJUNCTIONS REVERSED.

Victory for the Chicago Board of Trade in a Ruling by Judge Sears at Chicago.

Chicago, March 25.—The Chicago board of trade won a victory in the appellate court in a ruling announced by Judge Sears. The ruling reversed the injunctions secured by Frank I. Riordan, broker and member of the board of trade, restraining the board of directors from expelling him on a charge of having violated the rules of the organization.

The Riordan case came as a sequel to the hearing of the suit of the Central Stock and Grain exchange which sought to prevent the cutting off of the daily ticker market report of the board of trade. In this suit the board sought to prove the Central company was conducting a bucket shop. Mr. Riordan was called to testify in this case which was decided in favor of the Central company.

EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS.

Ex-Representative Rodenburg, of Illinois, and E. I. Allen, of Auburn, N. Y., Each Gather a Plum.

Washington, March 25.—The president has appointed ex-Representative W. A. Rodenburg, of Illinois, a member of the civil service commission, to succeed the late Mark S. Brewer, and E. I. Allen, of Auburn, N. Y., commissioner of patents, to succeed Commissioner Duell, resigned.

The selection of Mr. Rodenburg removes one of the factors which has delayed the appointment of the St. Louis exposition commissioners. Mr. Rodenburg's friends pressed persistently for one of these places. It is generally believed that Mr. Rodenburg's candidacy clashed directly with that of Prof. Northrup, of Minnesota. The announcement of the commission is now expected within a few days.

WIFE MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Charles Lattimer Kills His Wife, in Chicago, and Inflicts a Fatal Wound on Himself.

Chicago, March 25.—Charles Lattimer went into his wife's millinery store at 506 West Sixty-third street, walked up behind Mrs. Lattimer, who was examining a hat, preparatory to delivering it to a customer, and, without a word, shot her in the head, killing her instantly. Lattimer then placed the weapon to his own head and fired, inflicting a fatal wound. Mr. and Mrs. Lattimer had been living apart for some time.

A letter was found in Lattimer's pocket addressed to A. J. Lattimer, a brother, at Clinton, Ill. In the letter Lattimer said he intended to take his life. Sixty dollars in bills was inclosed in the letter, which also contained instructions to have the writer's body cremated.

SUBURBAN TOWNS FLOODED.

Results of Recent Heavy Rains in the Lowlands South and Southeast of Chicago.

Chicago, March 25.—Heavy rains of the past few days have caused floods in the lowlands south and southeast of Chicago, and the suburban towns of Grand Crossing, Drexel, Woodruff, Dauphin Park and Burnside are inundated. The flood in some places is so deep that many families are imprisoned in their houses and sidewalks, fences and outbuildings have floated away. The conditions are worst at Burnside, where the streets are under a foot of water. A dike at Thirty-seventh street and the Illinois Central tracks has given away under the pressure and fully two feet of water poured over the surrounding country, basements within an area of four miles being flooded and considerable other damage done.

Gifts to Tuskegee.

New York, March 25.—Booker T. Washington announces that, as a result of the meeting held, a week ago, by the Armstrong Association for the Tuskegee institute, $20,500 has been given or promised, including $10,000 from Mrs. C. P. Huntington, which may be used for the endowment fund.

To Be Deported to Spain.

Washington, March 25.—Fifteen Spaniards who came over to become shepherds in Idaho, and who were stopped by the immigration authorities at New York, are to be deported, having been brought to this country in violation of the contract labor law.

ROYAL GLOBE GIRDERS.

Arrival at Malta of the Steamer Ophir With the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York.

RECEIVED WITH MUCH POWDER BURNING.

Bulgarian Families Massacred by Turks and a Village in Macedonia Reported Burned—The Strike Situation at Marseilles But Little Changed.

Malta, March 25.—The steamer Ophir, bearing the duke and duchess of Cornwall and York on their tour of the world, has arrived here. The warships in the harbor were manned and dressed. The sun shone brightly and the crowds were early astir, pouring into Valetta and filling the terraces and ramparts commanding a view of the harbor. The approach of the Ophir was heralded, when she was still 18 miles distant, by salutes from a flotilla of ten torpedo boat destroyers which went out to meet her. She entered the harbor amid salvos of artillery from St. Angelo, the citadel, forts and warships.

After receiving the officials, the duke and duchess landed and drove to Porto Reale, and thence to the palace. The balconies of all the houses along the route were profusely decorated with flags and bunting, and filled with cheering spectators. The entire distance from the landing place to the palace was brightly decorated with Venetian masts and arches. The streets through which the duke and duchess and their party passed were lined with troops and blue jackets.

TURKISH ATROCITIES.

Bulgarian Families Massacred and a Village Burned.

Constantinople, March 25.—According to private advices from Macedonia, a band of Turks massacred three Bulgarian families, men, women and children, in the village of Aghmahalleh, near Sere, a town 47 miles north-east of Salonica. Details of the outrage have not been received. The news created a profound sensation. It is reported that a village near Monastir, in Macedonia, with a mixed population of Mussulmans and Bulgarians, have been burned.

THE MARSEILLES STRIKE.

But Little Change in the Situation—Many Factories Closed.

Marseilles, March 25.—The strike situation has undergone little change. There have been no further disorders, more street cars are running, protected by police, the strikers are quietly going to work, and many factories are closed owing to want of engineers.

No Truth in It.

Stuttgart, Wurttemberg, March 25.—There is no truth in the report that Baron Schott Von Schottenstein, the Wurttemberg premier, who recently withdrew from the cabinet owing to his being implicated in a pending trial, had committed suicide at Ulm.

Closed by Ministerial Decree.

Lisbon, March 25.—The police have closed the religious establishments which have been ordered closed by ministerial decree.

An Exaggerated Report.

London, March 25.—The report that Lord Salisbury is ill is somewhat exaggerated. He suffered from a slight cold in the head, Sunday, but is better.

Lost, With All on Board.

Kiel, March 25.—The overdue German steamer Brutus, from Scotland for Kiel, has been lost with all on board.

Charlotte Mary Yonge Dead.

London, March 25.—Charlotte Mary Yonge, the author, died Sunday in Winchester. She was born August 11, 1823.

DENIED THE APPLICATION.

Alexander McKenzie Denied Leave to File Petition for Habeas Corpus by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Washington, March 25.—The United States supreme court denied the application of Alexander McKenzie for leave to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus releasing him from imprisonment in California, under the proceedings of the circuit court of appeals, for contempt in connection with his conduct as receiver of certain mines in Alaska. The decision of the court proceedings can not be made the basis of a proceeding in error. The opinion was handed down by the chief justice.

JUMPED FROM EADS BRIDGE.

Suicide of Robert Hayes, at St. Louis—Had Become Despondent Over Illness.

St. Louis, March 25.—While in a despondent mood, brought about by a prolonged illness, Robert Hayes, 61 years old, who lived with his niece, Mrs. Emma Riley, committed suicide, Sunday afternoon, by jumping from the Eads bridge into the river.

Hayes' death was not due to drowning, as the water was but three feet deep where he struck, but he suffered internal injuries which proved fatal. The man was alive, but unconscious, when taken from the water, but he died in the ambulance while being conveyed to the city dispensary.

HAD A STORMY PASSAGE.

The Cunard Liner Eutaw Had a Rough Passage—Several Passengers Injured—A Suicide.

New York, March 25.—The Cunard line steamer Eutaw, which arrived Sunday night from Liverpool and Queenstown, was detained in the lower bay on account of a dense fog which prevailed all night. Heavy weather was encountered March 21 and 22, commencing with a westerly gale which changed to the northwest, blowing a hard gale with fierce hail squalls and high seas.

Several passengers were bruised and some sustained injuries requiring the attention of the ship's surgeon. An Irish girl, one of the steerage passengers, became so alarmed at the violent pitching and tossing of the steamer that she became demented. She is still very ill.

A second cabin passenger named Frederick Sawicki, a Roumanian, committed suicide by hanging. His body was buried at sea.

WITH SMALLPOX ON BOARD.

The Anchor Line Steamship Britannia Detained at Quarantine, New York.

New York, March 25.—The Anchor line steamer Britannia which arrived Sunday evening from the Mediterranean ports is detained at quarantine, owing to a case of smallpox among the steerage passengers. The patient will be sent to North Brothers island. The passengers will be vaccinated and the steamer thoroughly disinfected before she is allowed to proceed.

Enlistments May Be Curtailed.

Washington, March 25.—In view of the improving conditions in the Philippines the administration is seriously considering the advisability of curtailing the enlistments for the army. A definite conclusion will be reached within the next month.

IN THE SUPREME COURT.

Decisions Handed Down of Interest to Many Cities and Villages in Illinois.

STATE COURT FINDINGS SUSTAINED.

Contentions of Water Companies that Ordinances Adopted Under the Law of 1872, and Subsequent Acts, were Binding for Thirty Years are Knocked Out.

Washington, March 25.—In the United States supreme court opinions were handed down in several cases involving the construction of the state law of Illinois authorizing cities and villages to contract for water and water works. The cases decided affect the water systems of Freeport, Danville and Rogers Park in that state. The water companies in each case contended that the law of 1872 and other subsequent acts authorizing town and city authorities to contract for a water supply for 30 years included the right to fix rates for that time, and that the rate once fixed could not be changed. They argued that ordinances fixing rates were in the nature of contracts for the term of 30 years. In the case of the Freeport company the rate of $75 for each fire hydrant was first fixed by ordinance, but it was reduced by a subsequent ordinance to $50. The water company attacked the validity of this ordinance and took the case into the state supreme courts. The Illinois supreme court decided against the company, holding the ordinance reducing the price of water to be valid. The opinion sustained the finding of the state court. Justice McKenna, in handing down the opinion, said the state statutes were ambiguous, but that it has been thought advisable to decide that ambiguity in the interest of the public. A dissenting opinion was handed down by Justice White on the ground that the first ordinance was a contract. In this dissenting opinion Justices Brewer, Brown and White concurred. The opinions in all the other cases were on similar lines.

The court reversed the decision of the supreme court of the District of Columbia in the case of Throckmorton vs. Holt, involving the validity of the will of the late Judge Advocate General Holt. The district court threw the will out. It will now be necessary to retry the case.

The Porto Rican case was not decided by the supreme court. The court adjourned until April 8.

EXCITEMENT AT RIO JANEIRO.

It is Caused by Arrests in Connection with a Monarchist Plot.

New York, March 25.—A dispatch to the Herald from Rio Janeiro says:

Great excitement prevails here over the arrest of Admiral Custodio Jose Mello and others on account of the revelations of a monarchist plot through the suicide of Baron de Burghal.

Extraordinary precautions are being taken by the government to prevent any outbreak. Apprehension centers about the navy. The war vessels are being closely guarded, as it is believed that the officers are not quite trustworthy.

Details of the plot which Baron de Burghal revealed to the authorities have been revealed. It was the purpose of those concerned, it is declared, to give the signal for the outbreak by the assassination of President Campos Salles.

During the excitement that followed the monarchist adherents in the army and navy were to take possession of the city and hold the government offices. The affairs of state were to be intrusted to a triumvirate composed of Admiral Mello, Marshal Cantaria and Counsellor Lafayette Pereira.

Admiral Mello was quietly removed from this city as it was feared that his presence would cause disturbances. He was conveyed to Cobias island, where he is held in the custody of Admiral Proenca.

FAIR SETTLEMENT EFFECTED.

The Operators Have Conceded the Demands of the Miners in the Pittsburgh District.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 25.—Patrick Dolan, district president of the United Mine Workers' association, announced that after a conference, lasting more than three weeks, the operators conceded the demands made by the miners in the new wage scale, and a fair settlement for the Pittsburgh district has been effected. The miners' officials will take up the Beaver and Irwin districts scale this week.

Frightened Passengers.

Mattoon, Ill., March 25.—A terrific hail and wind storm passed over this section Sunday night, doing great damage to property and early crops. Between this city and Charleston a fast Big Four express passed between two huge funnel-shaped clouds, which for a time caused consternation among the passengers.

A Trip to Manila.

Washington, March 25.—Secretary of War Root and Adj.-Gen. Corbin expect to make a trip to the Philippines for personal investigation of the conditions there. Col. Sanger, assistant secretary of war, will have charge of the department in their absence.

TERRIFIC MINE EXPLOSION.

Seven Men Killed Outright and Nine Others Fearfully Injured, Some of Whom Will Die.

Connellsville, Pa., March 25.—A special train, composed of a box car and a fast engine brought into Connellsville nine groaning and blackened men, the victims of a terrific mine explosion at the Gates mine of the Eureka Fuel Co., in the New Klondike coke field in this (Fayette) county. The mine has been worked only a few months. The explosion, it is believed, resulted from accumulated gas. Twenty-eight men entered the mine to work. Of this number 16 were caught in the explosion and seven were killed almost instantly. As soon after the explosion as possible a force of men was put to the rescue, while a great crowd of grief-stricken wives and relatives surrounded the shaft. One by one the burned men were found. Seven were dead. Nine still lived and these were put into a box car. A fast engine was attached and this hospital express was rushed at full speed to Connellsville where the victims were placed in the hospitals. Three or four probably will die. The dead men were taken to their desolated homes. No names could be learned here as all the injured are foreigners.

THE TOWN GUARD CALLED OUT.

Business at Queenstown, Cape Colony, Suspended on Account of a Boer Scare.

Queenstown, Cape Colony, March 25.—The town guard here has been called out, owing to reports that a force of Boers is near the town. Business has been shut down in order to allow the employees to man the trenches and forts day and night. The Boers, who are said to be 20 miles off, are alleged to have crossed the railroad near Drummond.

Guilt of Manslaughter.

Edwardsville, Ill., March 25.—The jury in the case of the People vs. John Lueker, charged with the murder of H. H. Lueker, a prominent resident of Worden, this county, on trial nearly all of last week, agreed on a verdict shortly before one o'clock Sunday morning, finding the accused guilty of manslaughter.

Death of a Pioneer.

Charleston, Ill., March 25.—Pete Furry, aged 85, died at his home, near Janesville, Sunday morning. He was the oldest resident of Coles county. He had lived on a farm in the Goose-neck Prairie for 70 years. He was a neighbor of Thomas Lincoln, father of President Lincoln.

A Fatal Thumping.

Louisville, Ky., March 25.—Charles Hoffman, a small boy, 8 years old, Callahan a thumping, Sunday, because the latter made remarks about Hoffman's sister. Callahan died a few hours later, and Hoffman was arrested on a charge of murder.

A River of Burning Oil.

Glen Gardner, N. J., March 25.—Following a freight wreck here, Sunday, ten oil tank cars exploded, sending a river of flaming oil down the main street of the town, setting fire to many buildings and causing a loss of about $100,000.

ONE YEAR ONE DOLLAR

It is reported again that the Civil Service Commission "is after" collector Sapp. It is about as likely to catch him as is a bow-legged fice to overhaul a jack-rabbit.

Gen. Fred Funston has gone to the mountains with ten American soldiers to capture Aguinaldo. Give the dashing Kansan half a chance, and he would crack the noggin of the man in the moon.

An American syndicate has secured 55,000 acres of land in Cuba and will build a great sugar refining plant. The island will be modernly Americanized through commercial channels before her patriots and law makers know what hit 'em.

Our two most conspicuous circuit court officials, Judge Nunn and Commonwealth's Attorney Grayot, are at their respective posts of duty this March, looking as healthy, and as contented as ever, and we might add, without fear of having the case nollied, younger than ever. Judge Nunn has had so few of his decisions reversed by the higher courts and has adjusted himself so gracefully to the dignities of the bench, good graces of the bar, and litigants that his friends have begun to talk about the many good qualities he would take to the Appellate bench, and that naturally connects his popular co-laborer, Mr. Grayot, with the Attorney-Generalship. The Press hopes to see the day when both are doing business for the people up at the capitol.

Saturday Secretary Hay gave to the Spanish authorities a check for $100,000 in payment for the island of Cagayan and other islands near the Philippine group. Uncle Sam's investments in truck patches on the other side of the globe is likely to bring greater responsibilities, annoyances and expenditures that dividends, but he must be a big world power, with a chip on his shoulder, no matter whether school keeps or not.

It is as equitable for the Maryland legislature to pass an election law requiring an educational qualification for voting as it is for Massachusetts to maintain a similar law, passed years ago, but a moral qualification, backed by a patriotic purpose in exercising the right of suffrage, is the more essential feature of good citizenship.

The State Board of Equalization will probably adopt the 80 per cent. valuation, which has been the basis of assessment. This means that in counties where the property has not been listed for taxation at 80 per cent. of its real value, the assessment will be raised to that point, and where it has been listed above that point it will be lowered to that level.

China has a population of about 400,000,000 souls and others, but according to the report of the special committee of Ministers, the imperial revenue is only about $65,000,000 annually, and her tax rate will have to be doubled along some lines to enable her to pay expenses and settle the $200,000,000 indemnity demanded by the four powers within twenty years. Just think of it! It will take 400,000,000 people twenty years to pay a sum equal to the fortune of a single American citizen like Mr. Carnegie. The rat eaters are a mighty masley set, or else we have some colossal Croesus before whom the rich men of other ages of the world pale into insignificance.

The United States Supreme Court wants more information about the famous McChord railroad law of this state, before passing upon its constitutionality, and will hear argument again October 25th.

A number of congressmen and senators will visit Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines this summer to gather information, it is stated, that will enable them to formulate legislation for the good of all concerned. It is not at all improbable that some of them, at least, have gone to get in on "the ground floor" of some of the great schemes for the commercial development of themselves as well as the countries.

Fine Stock.

Mr. F. M. Daniel of this county has some very fine stock. Railey, the celebrated saddle horse, and three high bred Spanish jacks are among his fine animals. Stock breeders will do well to see him. JOHN HOWERTON

A Young Man of This County, Reported Killed at Evansville.

News reached here yesterday afternoon that John Howerton, a young man of this county was killed in Evansville Tuesday night. That a Crittenden county man was killed there is verified by telephone, but identification of the dead body is not complete enough to tell whether it is young Howerton or not, though it looks that way. Friends of the young man went to Evansville on the 3 o'clock train.

The Evansville Courier says: An unknown white man hailing from Marion, Ky., is lying in an unconscious condition in the Deaconess hospital, caused by a blow on the head delivered by Jack Lasley, a negro. The occurrence took place at 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. His assailant is locked up. All that is known of the victim is that he registered at the Victoria hotel Monday. His name is so badly written that all that can be deciphered are his initials which are J. H. From appearance he was adjudged a farmer, 27 years of age, weighs about 150 pounds, has dark hair and eyes. Many conflicting reports of what lead to the assault are rumored about, but no eye witnesses to the affair could be located. According to the negro, Lasley, the man had called him vile names and otherwise provoked him that he "took a smash at him." Lasley was working at the time repairing the railroad track in Division street. Another side to the story is that the negro had quarrelled with the man and in the heat of anger struck him with an ax. When picked up and carried to the hospital, an examination showed slight scalp wounds and blood flowing from the left ear. Everything possible was done to revive him, but all proved of no avail. He died at 3:10 this morning.

John Howerton went to Evansville Monday. He is a son of Mr. George W. Howerton, one of the county's best citizens.

Osteopathy.

From Our Special Correspondent.

FRANKLIN, KY.,
March 25th 1901.

ED. PRESS: So much interest has been manifested in the testimonials of the patients of this institution that we shall give your readers a few statements from prominent people who have investigated osteopathy, and endorse it. Of the many governors of states who have written their opinion of osteopathy, we give the following: Gov. Grout of Vermont says: "Osteopathy has been tried by the leading men and women of the state, and they testify to its merits."

Gov. Stephens of Missouri says: "The science of osteopathy, as far as it has come under my observation, assists in relieving suffering humanity."

Gov. Pingree of Michigan says: "Osteopathy is a science entitled to all respect and confidence, as a distinct advancement in medicine. I know it is doing a vast amount of good in relieving suffering humanity."

Gov. Shaw, of Iowa, says: "I am fully convinced that osteopathy is a rational system of healing."

Gov. Lee, of S. Dakota, says: "From a careful investigation of the claims of the system I believe osteopathic practitioners are entitled to the protection of our laws."

Gov. McMillen, of Tenn., says: "Osteopathy is one of the greatest discoveries of the time."

Gov. Altgelt, of Ill., says: "I am indebted to osteopathy for great good to both Mrs. Altgelt and myself in more than one crisis, when physicians' prescriptions had proved as ineffectual as empty words."

What is good for government is good for the citizen.

Judge Goodnight says: "Certainty osteopathy is a science of high attainment and utility. No one capable of thinking fairly on withhold applause from a system which is daily curing the most stubborn and serious afflictions without the use of knife or drug. I have seen critics, paralytics, dyspeptics, asthmatics and rheumatism take up their beds and walk."

Mr. J. J. Jackson, of Cadiz, Ky., says: "I have been a sufferer from indigestion and nervous trouble, and constipation for fifteen years. I have tried the local physicians and patent medicines with little relief. Found no relief at Hot Springs and tried osteopathy at Franklin, Ky., as a last resort. One month's treatment did me more good than all other treatment put together. I think osteopathy is the coming profession."

Probably some of your readers are making a serious mistake in delaying treatment even for a few weeks. Without excepting chronic troubles run from bad to worse. Trusting we may have an opportunity of restoring such to health and strength.

We are, very truly,
The Southern School of Osteopathy, Franklin, Ky.

Coughs tell you that there is something wrong in the throat or lungs. It is the cause, not the cough, that you must look after. Morley's Honey Pectoral searches out the cause of trouble, it heals the inflamed surfaces, stops the irritation, loosens the cough, and cures you thoroughly. Sold by J H Orme.

Most in Quantity, Best in Quality:

Morley's Sarsaparilla and Iron is a tonic, a blood purifier and a blood maker. It does not stop with merely curing certain diseases, like scrofula, sores, abscesses, etc., but cleanses and builds up the whole system. All who have tried it say there is more cure in one bottle of Morley's Sarsaparilla and Iron than in six of any other kind. Sold at Orme's drug store.

HELP FOR OUTCASTS.

Grand Work Accomplished by the Chicago Medical Mission.

In Its Charitable Endeavors Physical Health Is Considered Quite as Carefully as Moral and Spiritual Regeneration.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

"FAITH, without works, is dead." This must have been the compelling thought of Dr. J. H. Kellogg, of Battle Creek, Mich., which caused him so earnestly to desire to help the unfortunate in Chicago. So fully was the idea of this work formed in his mind that, when two brothers from the Kimberley mining district offered him $48,000 with a question as to how he would use it, his reply was: "We will go down to Chicago and undertake a work for the submerged people of that great city." They have never had cause to regret the investment. The money was used for a sanitarium at 28 Thirty-third place, the earnings of which institution formed a nucleus of a sum with which the mission work was begun in a little basement under No. 40 Custom House place, near Van Buren street. After the old basement was cleaned and whitewashed, some little stalls were made, shower baths and laundry tubs installed and a small room partitioned off in one corner for dressing wounds; for these intensely practical people believed that, in order to efficiently minister to the needs of the soul, the wants of the body must often be first considered. Work was begun one Sunday. Soon 30 and 40 people per day received free treatment in a locality where no provision had heretofore been made for such as they. The frequenters of the neighborhood soon came to know the workers and many touching incidents are told of their appreciation of the most real Christian help and sympathy that had ever been extended to them.

During the first winter relief was given to over 100,000 people. Over 75,000 garments were distributed. A police man who from curiosity entered this place one day when it was full of crooks, the "most dangerous and wicked men in Chicago," said: "I see you don't need any clubs down there." He further remarked that if all those men were in the street together it would take a dozen policemen to keep them in order.

The work has progressed until now it includes six institutions, all cooperating in a manner which seems truly wonderful to an outsider to whom it is first explained. One of the first to respond to the call for volunteers was the present secretary, who does not wish his name used, as he says none of the workers desire to be personally considered. They have given their lives and the work speaks for itself. It was soon seen that the clothes of those who were cleaned up at the mission were again unfit for contact with man (or beast either, for that matter) after one night spent in the low lodging houses in the district. A mission was started at 436 State street, near Polk, where religious services are held every night, but after the men came out they had no decent place to sleep. So a building was secured at 1311 State street, where clean beds are supplied for ten cents. Each man is obliged to take a bath and have his clothes fumigated. Food is supplied at a penny a dish, the cost of the raw material at wholesale. Mission nurses prepare the food. A penny's worth of mush is a large amount. A half loaf of bread costs a penny.

In order that no imposition be practiced, a rug-weaving factory has been added to the establishment, where an absolutely penniless man may work for his board and lodging. Thus none are turned away as long as any room remains for an applicant. Physicians are in attendance, and a man's physical condition is easily determined. If he be ill, he is at once sent to the mission dispensary, 1924 Wabash avenue.

Here is the great headquarters of the work, in a large building, the two upper stories of which are used as a medical school, the two lower as a nurses' training school, with a free dispensary in a wing opening on Twentieth street. Below these are the kitchen, dining-room, laundry and printing offices. In the latter job printing for the various establishments is done and type set for the Life Boat, a 16-page magazine, which, from an issue of less than 500 in 1898, has increased to a circulation of 15,000. In it is only printed such matter as may be comprehended by the most ignorant in the city's slums, and many a simple Gospel story of transformation in the lives of mission visitors is told in its pages. A few pages are devoted to prisons and prisoners. An occasional special prisoners' number is issued. Many pathetic letters come into the hands of the editors from different jails and penitentiaries. The mission finds employment for as many paroled and discharged prisoners as possible, but the number of those who are willing to employ them is limited. At the dispensary are given not only free prescriptions, but baths, massage and electric treatments. In the regular hospital wards charges are made according to the circumstances of the patient. The mission nurses visit the poor and sick all over the city and render them such aid as is possible. Many victims of the morphine habit have been cured here. While, occasionally, members of wealthy families apply for treatment, the greater number of opium patients have spent all their money, either for the drug or some bogus remedy.

The nurses live on the community plan. An allowance, according to the needs of her work, is made to each one. Those who receive pay give it over to the institution and it is applied to the use of those who are nursing destitute patients. Those received as students into the medical mission, whether to prepare themselves as physicians or nurses, are expected to devote themselves to missionary work. No others are received. During the first year work is given them sufficient to pay for their board and tuition. After that time a small allowance is made them for their services. The study of the Bible is a leading feature in the training, for soul and body are to be treated at the same time. In the maternity ward, in the wing of the building, many an unfortunate little one has first seen the light, the mother, in the meantime, beginning life anew and soon joining in the work of aiding others. The mission has also a home-finding department, by means of which orphans and brothers with young children are placed in homes. At 2408 South Park avenue is the Children's Christian home, where little ones under eight years old, rescued from want by mission workers, receive care and training. A day school and kindergarten are maintained. There is a branch of this home at Berlin, Wis., under charge of a corps of workers from the Chicago home. Not only orphaned children are welcomed here, but those with mothers for whom work is found among those who are unable to receive the child also. Often the mother may require hospital treatment, and her cure is hastened by the assurance that her children are in kind hands.

Another branch of the work, the latest, having been started but a little over a year ago, is that of its demands for self-care. Every description, its almost incomprehensible dangers, render it impossible to describe the self-sacrifice of the grand, noble women who are in charge of the Life Boat Rest, on South Clark street, near Polk, said to be the worst district in Chicago. Here a home, medical treatment and loving care are freely given to any young girl of the neighborhood who desires to accept them. No service is required of them; nothing, in fact, but that they remain indoors unless accompanied by one of the nurses, who do all the work, maintain the home and pay the exorbitant rent by the sale of the Life Boat and contributions from well-wishers. The whole building has been furnished by donations from friends of the work. When asked what was most needed at the present time, the matron replied: "Soap and under-clothing." This brave little woman receives no remuneration whatever for her services. An entirely self-supporting, steam-heated, electric-lighted hotel is conducted by the mission workers at 1331 State street, where men may board at low rates.

WAYS OF MOODY PEOPLE.

They Are Not the Most Comfortable Persons to Meet in Social Gatherings.

The moody man went to call upon some friends the other evening. "This is one of my nights," he said, warningly, as he came in, "so you'd better not disagree with me in conversation. I don't feel in any humor to be provoked."

"Indeed," replied his hostess, gently. "Well, then, as your very good friend I think I should warn you not to stay, for I am in a mood very natural to me—that of observing my constitutional right of freedom of speech—and I might offend you."

"I'll stay anyhow," said the man, stubbornly, "and we'll quarrel." "No, we won't," responded the woman, "for I'm going to lecture you." And lecture him she did on the inalienable right which every free-born American citizen possesses to stay under his own vine and fig tree when he's feeling disagreeable and not inflict his moods upon society.

One is constantly meeting at dances the man who thinks everything a bore and who ought to be living in a tub instead of acting as a wet blanket to extinguish the mirth of those who are less blasé, says a writer in the Baltimore News.

At dinner one's neighbor is just as often as not the confirmed dyspeptic whose cheerful remarks about their effects on the digestive apparatus make one's sweetbread croquettes far less palatable than they otherwise would be. Even one's Sunday devotions are sometimes marred by the melancholy individual who walks home with one to expound his theories.

And the moody man always expects his humors to be treated with respect. Is he sad? Why should anyone else be gay? He regards a joke as a personal affront and talks of levity in an awful tone that soon renders every one in the room low in the mind.

If he is capricious the company must select its subjects for conversation carefully lest they unwittingly offend him and bring down upon their heads his freely expressed contempt.

The people who have the most wholesome minds and the truest of tempers, it is said, are the members of large families. Moods are not tolerated by brothers and sisters for a moment. There's no disrespect like the disrespect of a relative. One's most sacred yearnings, one's gloomiest moments and most serious thoughts of suicide are all likely to be broken up by a whack on the back and an invitation to take a hand at tennis.

There's no place in the large family for moody members. There's really not much space for them in society. They are too selfish in their demands for consideration to be popular with busy, even-tempered people, and so they are borne with but are seldom in demand as companions.

INTERROGATING OFFICIALLY.

A Disgusted Maine Witness Who Could Not Understand the Reason for It.

"When I was in Maine a week or two ago," said a commercial traveler, relates the Washington Star, "I had occasion to visit a town near Bangor, and one morning, having an idle hour, strolled into the country courtroom, where I witnessed an amusing scene. The trial justice, a big, pompous official, with a voice like a trombone, took it upon himself to examine a witness, a little withered old man, whose face was as red and wrinkled as a herring.

"What is your name?" asked the justice.

"Why, squire," said the astonished witness, "you know my name as well as I know your'n."

"Never you mind what I know or what I don't know," was the caution given, with magisterial severity. "I ask the question in my official capacity, and you're bound to answer it under oath."

"With a contemptuous snort the witness gave his name and the questioning proceeded.

"Where do you live?"

"Wal, I swum!" ejaculated the old man. "Why," he continued, appealing to the laughing listeners, "I've lived in this town all my life, and so's he," pointing to the justice, "an', begosh, to hear him go on you'd think—"

"Silence!" thundered the irate magistrate. "Answer my question or I'll fine you for contempt of court."

"Alarmed by the threat the witness named his place of residence and the examination went on.

"What is your occupation?"

"Huh?"

"What do you do for a living?"

"O git out, squire! Just as if you don't know that I tend gardens in the summer season and saw wood winters!"

"As a private citizen I know it, but as the court I am not supposed to know anything about you," explained the perspiring justice.

"Wal, squire," remarked the puzzled witness, "if you know somethin' outside the courtroom and don't know nothin' in it, you'd better get out an' let somebody try this case that's got hoss sense."

"The advice may have been good, but it cost the witness ten dollars."

HOW LIGHT TRAVELS

One of the Utterly Incomprehensible Wonders of Infinity.

Numberless Worlds Are Around Us, All Framed by the Same Divine Artist and Conducted by His Unerring Hand.

[Special Correspondence.] IT IS a long journey from Chicago to New York. An express train traveling at its highest rate is on the road almost 24 hours from city to city. Yet, in that day, the train has traveled over less than one-twenty-fifth of the circumference of the earth. That distance is 25,000 miles, a gigantic dimension, almost beyond our mental grasp.

Now let us carry these dimensions step by step further. Look at an astronomical map, and you will see that the earth itself is but a dot when the distance to the moon is shown, and the moon in turn seems to be fairly hugging the earth, as compared with the long, long road to the sun.

This distance from the earth to the sun is 93,000,000 miles. No human mind can begin to conceive of such a dimension, and the only way to judge it is by comparison—taking first one distance and considering what an enormous jump it is, and then figuring that this jump is duplicated, again and again, a thousand times. In fact, the figures for space in astronomical heavens run up into such countless billions and trillions of miles that no scientist thinks of putting them in these terms. Instead, he measures space in time of light. That is to say, taking the distance traversed by a ray of light in a second, a minute or a year, he says that such and such a star is so many light years away from us.

Light, as we know, travels with enormous rapidity; and the distance of a "minute of light" is therefore prodigious. In the case of the sun, for instance, which, as already stated, is 93,000,000 miles away, the light reaches us in only 8 minutes and 19 seconds. Now imagine what a "light hour" or a "light year" must mean.

We all know that the star nearest to the earth is our sun, and that according to a commonly accepted theory the other stars that seem to us mere specks are also suns with their planets and moons like the solar system. Looking up at the heavens on a clear night we may well conceive that some of these stars are so far away that it will take the light much longer than eight minutes—an hour, two, three or four hours, possibly, to reach us. Perhaps, we think, there might be a star at such a prodigious distance that the light rays shot from its orb do not begin to reach until the night after we first spy it. What a stupendous, awe-inspiring dimension that would be! Over 200 times 93,000,000 miles away.

Now let the astronomer give us the real figures. Almost above our heads to the south is the constellation known as the Corona, a cluster of bright stars grouped close together. In it is the star outside the solar system, nearest to this mud-ball of ours. How long does its light travel until it reaches us? Three years and several more weeks.

And that is the star by far our nearest neighbor. The one next to it, Cygnus 61, is almost eight light years distant. The rays that are leaving its great mass of luminous matter at this minute will reach us in 1909, eight years from date. Those sharp scintillations that are penetrating to our eyes to-night started there back in 1893 the year of the great panic. Do you remember something you were doing some night in 1893? Perhaps you were young and romantic then, and you looked up to the stars and thought they were watching you. But they were not. They have not begun to see what you were doing until just now.

A new star has suddenly appeared in the constellation Perseus. As a result astronomers all over the world are astir and hundreds of telescopes are nightly sighted at the wonderful bright speck called Perseus Nova.

It is a star of the first magnitude, the scientists tell us, and is in a group among those nearest to this little earth of ours, from 20 to 30 light years. Now let us see how far from us it is, and let us take it step by step by the following comparisons:

Many, many of the stars will not begin to see aught of the happenings of this earth until long after you are dead. For the heavens are studied with suns so far out in space that it must seem to them as if the Corona and our own solar system could look arms. Here is what Simon Newcomb, the eminent astronomer, says: "We may conclude with considerable probability that most of the stars visible to the naked eye lie at distances which light would traverse in between 50 to 300 years. If we suppose that the smaller telescopic stars have a general average of about the same intrinsic brilliancy, these are at a distance of from 50 to 50,000 years."

Now let us conceive of an infinite mind possessed of physical senses. Or to take the theory of thought transference, which is now accredited by many eminent psychologists—supposing by instantaneous thought transference our minds could transfer themselves from star to star. Then on going to such a star as Sirius, the brightest in the heavens, we could see the things that were happening on this earth about 18 years ago. We could see President Arthur, young Boulanger just rising into power, Queen Victoria at the height of her reign, the iron chancellor of Germany strengthening the bonds of his empire. Transferring ourselves a little further, we could get to a point where the light rays that portray the American and the French revolutions are just reaching. We could see George Washington inaugurated, then by a quick jump to a nearer star we would witness Napoleon devastating the fields of Europe. Or going further away, we would see the medieval popes at Rome, Martin Luther, John Calvin, Ignatius Loyola.

We might travel on in thought to the constellation of the great dipper, and there, planted on a cool spot on some planet, we could watch the developments in that great period of history following the birth of Jesus. Every single light ray is reaching there now, not one of them lost, not the move of a hand, not the turn of a head. It seems a fanciful speculation, and yet—with the development of this sixth sense of thought transference, combined with the sharpening of physical instruments, who knows what the future may reveal of the past?

With the naked eye we can see from 5,000 to 8,000 stars on a clear night, although we cannot easily distinguish much less count, that number; with a telescope the total is raised to 50,000. All this is merely the beginning. All the stars we can distinguish are but the comparatively minute particles of a single cluster. Science has not yet definitely proved the assumption, but it is believed that all these systems, including our own, belong in a group of which the milky way marks the outward edge. That is to say, astronomers reason that all the stars we know are spread out on a big plane. Some of them may be trillions and trillions of miles away at a perpendicular to our planet, but this dimension is trivial compared with the horizontal dimension—just as a pancake may be thick, but is thin nevertheless compared with its horizontal dimension.

Sometimes stars have been "discovered" long before they were seen, simply by noticing some minute deflection in the path of a known star. This, for instance, was the case with the planet Neptune. The paths of the erratic comets are known, and reference to a chart will readily tell an astronomer at what time this or that famous comet will return. The one espied in 1858, for example, will return after a trip of 15,000,000 miles in the year A. D. 3820. By these calculations historians, also, have been aided; for the phenomena described in ancient times were traced, and important dates of battles have been fixed.

By calculations on the star of Bethlehem we know that Jesus of Nazareth was born four years before the date assigned for the beginning of the Christian era—a date that historians for centuries were incapable of fixing accurately. One of the most startling results of astro-historical research has been accomplished in reference to Egyptian antiquity. In this case the astronomers have figured on the processions of the equinoxes, the poles swinging around in a small circle once every 26,000 years, thus changing the aspect of the heavens from the earth's point of view. As a result they profess to know that some of the events in the valley of the Nile transpired as long as 15,000 years ago, upsetting the claims of historians, and forcing geologists to revise their figures.

RANK IN FLOWERS.

Curious But Indelible Rules Which Govern the Arrangement of Flowers in Japan.

With such titles as "ten thousand times sprinkled with gold, and disheveled hair in morning sleep" fresh in his memory, and coming from a land where the arrangement of flowers is part of the education, it must be something of a shock to the Japanese visiting this country to hear the prosaic names we bestow on our chrysanthemums and to find how recklessly Americans arrange bouquets. He appreciates that as a nation we are much less fond of flowers than are his people, and how little they mean to us in life beyond the pleasing sensations produced by their beauty. In Japan the arrangement of them is pursued as an art, being profoundly studied by men of rank, philosophers and priests, besides learned and literary men, ladies of the aristocracy are allowed to practice the art as being likely to inspire such estimable virtues as gentleness, self-denial, forgetfulness of care and spirituality. A lifetime is indeed not too long for the Japanese, either man or woman, to devote to an understanding of the subtle meaning conveyed by flowers, and the rigorous rules necessary to observe in producing them with the best artistic results, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

In Japan the peony, although acknowledged to be the royal flower of China, is still the favorite of the upper classes. It is given on occasions of importance the position of honor on the dais in the principal recess; never is it placed in the center of the room nor on a shelf, and no other flower is allowed to come near its royal presence. Sometimes art dictates that two black twigs shall be grouped behind it, the thought being to enhance by contrast its abundant life and beauty. The lotus flower also is conceded to have royal national rank, and is called the king of Indian flowers. On festive days the Japanese never use it, as they associate it entirely with the spirit of the dead. The royal flower of Japan, of course, is the cherry blossom. The idea of floral rank is one to which the Japanese are very sensitive and the established laws of precedence must be closely adhered to in the arrangement of their flowers. To an American it seems perhaps inexplicable that they should have placed the purple wistaria high above the white, which they most exclude from their compositions.

Trises stand very high in rank, but are regarded as difficult of arrangement, and therefore the most arbitrary rules have been evolved for their composition. With one large flower, but three leaves are allowed; with two flowers, seven or fifteen leaves are used; three flowers are given 13 leaves, and five flowers are furnished with 33 leaves.

So deftly are thoughts conveyed by the arrangement of flowers in Japan that often verbal messages are unnecessary. In November the acouette sends to her lover a leaf, or branch, of maple. "Like it," he translates, "her love has changed."

On faraway occasions those called "returning flowers," because they bloom twice a year, are used to subtly express the hope of a safe return. Before people that are ill, blossoms of a sturdy, vigorous growth are placed, that health and strength may be suggested. Only very gay flowers are strewn in profusion when supplicants are made for those in affliction. Prayers for rain are accompanied by large floral pieces so arranged as to point from right to left, that the east wind bringing rain may be honored, and very naturally the reverse order typifying the west wind is employed when fair weather is desired.

Border of the thin mist; shades of the evening sun; waves in the morning sun; companion of the moon; snow on the leaf of the bamboo; moon's halo; spray-capped wave; starlit night; beacon light; the sky at dawn; first snow, and golden dew are among the many imaginative and pretty names the Japanese bestow on their chrysanthemums, these flowers which appeal so strongly to their poetic natures. In the arrangement of them they are very careful and guard against seven faults: their stems must not be of the same length, a single blossom must not turn its back nor present its full face; three flowers must not appear to form a triangle, they must not be hidden by leaves, nor must they be arranged in the way of steps; an open, full blossom should never be placed at the base of the composition, and one odd one should not fall between two others alike in color.

Merv, City of the Desert.

At nine o'clock at night another sensation. Merv, once the "Queen of the World," once a household word in England, thanks to O'Donovan and Marvin and Vambury, as the possible cause of war with Russia, whose absorption of Central Asia brought her here in 1884, just a year before parliament, at Gladstone's behest, voted £11,000,000 of war money at a sitting in view of Russia's next step south. Now the whole oasis of Merv, one of the most fertile spots in the whole world, is as Russian as Riga, and when you say "Merv" in Central Asia you mean a long, low, neat, stone railway station, lit by a score of bright lamps in a row, where the train changes engines, while in a busy telegraph office a dozen operators sit before their clicking instruments; and if you are a Russian officer or official you mean also a brand new town where a pestilential malarial fever is sure to catch you sooner or later, and very likely to kill you.—Henry Norman, in Scribner's.

THOUSANDS OF FAIR WOMEN HERALD PRAISES FOR PERUNA.

Catarrhal Dyspepsia and Nervous Prostration Make Invalids of More Women Than All Other Diseases Combined.

Peruna is the woman's friend everywhere. It is safe to say that no woman ever used Peruna for any catarrhal derangement but what it became indispensable in her household.

Letters from Women.

Every day we receive letters from women like the following. Women who have tried doctors and failed; women who have tried Peruna and were cured.

Miss Katie Klein, 6125 Bartmer avenue, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "Peruna has done me more good for catarrh than the best doctors could. I had catarrh so bad, but after taking Peruna it is entirely gone, and I feel like a different person."

Miss Anna Prescott's Letter.

Miss Anna Prescott, in a letter from 216 South Seventh street, Minneapolis, Minn., writes:

"I am sincerely grateful for the relief I have found from the use of Peruna. I was completely used up last fall, my appetite had failed and I felt weak and tired all the time. My druggist advised me to try Peruna and the relief I experienced after taking one bottle was truly wonderful."

"I continued its use for five weeks, and am glad to say that my complete restoration to health was a happy surprise to myself as well as to my friends."—Anna Prescott.

A constant drain of nervous vitality depleting the whole nervous system causes the mucous membrane surfaces to suffer accordingly. This is the condition called systemic catarrh. It very nearly resembles, and there is really no practical difference, between this condition and the condition known as neurasthenia, or nervous prostration.

Now we felt vastly relieved.—Indianapolis Press.

Mrs. F. E. Robertson Dead.

Mrs. Ella Robertson, wife of Mr. F. E. Robertson, the well known distiller, died at her home in this city Monday afternoon, after a brief illness, of two days. The remains were taken to Morganfield Tuesday for interment.

Her death was a severe shock to her many friends in this city, and in Morganfield, where she was raised. The family moved to Marion a few years ago, and Mrs. Robertson's gentle disposition, sociable and refined ways won her many very warm friends among the people of Marion. The bereaved husband and sister have the deepest sympathy of the people of the community. Mrs. Robertson's maiden name was Offut, and she was one of the oldest and best families of the State.

The World's Greatest Syndicate.

In the Easter Number of The Saturday Evening Post Forrest Crossey tells of the wonderful work of the International Sunday School Lesson Series. The Central editorial staff is the American Lesson Committee, and it will hold its next meeting in New York on April 17, 1901. Twenty million teachers and pupils simultaneously read the same lesson, which is prepared by this syndicate. It has auxiliary associates in other countries. The syndicate is composed of men of the highest scholarship, especially gifted in research in the Old and New Testaments. The success of this work was never greater than at present.

Weston S. S. Memorial Services.

Little Clyde Ford joined our Sunday school last summer, while spending the summer with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Bristow. It seems from what we know of him that he was a little boy trying to take the Bible for what it says—remember thy Creator in the days of thy youth. He was a son of Leonard and Irene Ford, of Crider, and a member of Bethlehem church. Clyde was the sunshine of the home circle. Though he was with us but a short time he wove a band around our hearts we cannot sever. The Sunday school joins with bereaved parents in truest sympathy. The Lord bless the bereaved ones until we meet again on the other shore. Little classmate farewell. We know you are an angel now.

L. A. Travis,
A. Heath.

NEW SALEM.

Henry Brouster and John Harpending made business trips on the river last week.

Our farmers, as a general thing, have more farm work done at this date than in many years.

The children of the late Jim Givens received word last week that through the death of an aunt in Tenn. they were left some money. We are glad to hear of the good luck of these neighbors.

The wheat crop looks bad; in fact the worst showing in many years.

Misses Myra Stevens and Duke Hayden, of Salem, were guests of the Misses Harpending last week.

Spillman Threlkeld and wife were visiting relatives in Livingston county last week.

Rev Sidney Moore preaches at Tyner's Chapel every fourth Sunday.

Our Salem friends talk of nothing but railroad now. A railroad they are going to have. A big railroad meeting is called for one night next week. They mean business. We Crittenden county boys are with them for all that there is in it. Yes, we lower Crittenden county people are as anxious for a road to Salem as Salem itself, and will do all we are able to secure it.

Who will be the first farmer in our precinct to plant corn?

M. C. O'Hara, of View, passed through this section last Saturday en route home from Harrisburg, Ill., where he has been for the past month looking after his mining interest in that state. Mr. O'Hara brings glowing accounts of the richness of his mines.

Mrs. Mattie Franklin, of Salem, was in this city last week. Your correspondent's family can never forget the great kindness of Mrs. Franklin.

Miss Cora Parker, of Livingston is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Spillman Threlkeld.

Some of our old weather prophets predict a dry spring and summer.

We like the views expressed by Farmer in last week's Press, as regards the stock law. We would be very glad to hear through the columns of the Press, (our editor being willing, and I am sure he would,) from more farmers on this stock question.
